As Miner, Farmer and Business Man has helped to thoroughly and completely qualify

P. J. MILLER

Democratic Candidate for nomination as Corporation Commissioner. He knows Arizona and the needs of its people, and is acquainted with actual conditions in every county.

The bulk of the commission's business is with telephone, electric, gas, water, and mining corporations, so a commissioner, to be qualified, should know of something besides railroad matters.

Support Miller and you will be supporting a business man for a business administration.

Chick?" "Wrong again, Pete. I've made five dollars a week more since I cut it out. And the professors in the clinic here tell me it's always so. A regular established scientific fact as they call it. A man can do more work, make less mistakes, work faster, and not get so tired if he never touches even beer. Queer, ain't it?" "Sounds as if they were tryin' to string you, Chick."

"Gospel truth. I've proved it on myself. Why, Connie Mack, in 1910 and 1911, wouldn't let the boys touch beer when they pulled off those two championships. As a matter of fact, 15 out of the 25 didn't know the taste of beer anyway. That's pretty straight dope, ain't it?"

"But it sure does make your old brain work faster to put a drink under your belt."

"I used to think so, too. But that idea is all rot. Some of these here real scientific guys over on the other side—a man in Munich, another in Vienna, and a fellow in Italy—tried a lot of experiments, and they found that a kid could learn a whole lot faster, could remember things better, and was a whole lot smarter all around, if his pa and ma kept every drop of booze from him. And I'm believing it, too. My doc in here told me all about it. "You're spiling like a regular prof yourself, Chick."

Strikes and Administrations.

To the Editor of The Republican: In this morning's issue you speak editorially of railroad strikes always occurring in democratic administrations except one strike that amounted to nothing in 1874. Again I take issue with you as the strike you referred to occurred in 1877 under the Hayes ad-

NATIONAL HUGHES ALLIANCE TO FORM A BRANCH IN THIS STATE

Miss Anne Rhodes of New York City, formerly a vice president of the progressive party of that state, and one of the leading political workers of the east, arrived in Phoenix yesterday as a representative of the National Hughes Alliance, formed for the purpose of enlisting members to work and vote for the republican nominee for president.

In an interview last evening Miss Rhodes explained the National Hughes Alliance. When Mr. Hughes was governor of New York, the Hughes alliance was formed to work for his re-nomination. Following his term as governor of the Empire state, and upon his elevation to the supreme court the organization lapsed. The word that Justice Hughes had been nominated for president, was the toxin that called the clan together in New York, and by the time he had resigned from the bench, and had made his historical visit to New York City headquarters had been opened and an organization was waiting to do its best for the nominee.

Miss Rhodes explained last evening that the alliance has nothing to do with any woman's organization in the country, be it for suffrage or against it. It is strictly a Hughes organization, numbers both men and women in its ranks. As one fourth of the states in the Union have woman suffrage, it was decided by the leaders of the alliance to form a woman's committee, which Miss Frances A. Keller, of New York, is chairman, Mrs. Mary Harman Rumsey, secretary and Mrs. Gifford Pinckney, treasurer.

It is probable that she will be heard at the republican club meeting Monday night on the roof garden of the hotel. She is an eloquent and interesting talker, bringing an important message to the Arizonians who believe a change should be made in the presidency and the policies that now control the nation. She has many local friends who have greeted her return with keen pleasure.

ministration. The Union depot was burned down in Pittsburgh, Pa. A regiment of militia was sent against the strikers. They reversed their arms and gave them to the strikers. The railroad from New York to San Francisco was tied up for several days.

Yours respectfully,

WILLIAM ARCHIBALD.

Phoenix, Arizona.

It was the strike of 1877 to which the editorial referred. We think our correspondent is in error as to the extent of it and that it was violent only on the Pennsylvania lines.—Ed.)

WATKINS-HUTCHINS CASE ENDS FUNNY

The case of R. A. Watkins, proprietor of Watkins printing establishment, arrested on the complaint of O. A. Hutchins, a pressman, charging assault with a dangerous weapon, came to a singular end in Justice De Souza's court yesterday. The defendant was willing to plead guilty, admitting that he had assaulted the pressman, but on great provocation, he had struck him with a pair of heavy shears.

After the evidence was all in, Hutchins desired to be heard and permission having been given, he unloaded himself at great length of his views of human conduct. Hutchins said he did not believe in jails or punishment for offenses. They only made men worse. He thought that farms ought to be substituted for punishment, for imprisonment and fines. And if improvement could be wrought in no other way the services of a surgeon ought to be invoked. In conclusion, Hutchins said that he did not ask for the punishment of the defendant who was thereupon discharged.

SUNDAY SCHOOL AND PROHIBITION

There will be a rousing meeting at the stadium at the Y. M. C. A. tonight, at which time the Phoenix District Sunday school association will convene in its annual meeting. There will be a fine musical program, and well known speakers, to interest those attending this meeting of all the churches of the city.

About forty Sunday schools will be represented. Professor R. Thane Cook, president of the association, will preside. The annual address to the association will be given by Dr. Henry Van Valkenburg of Tucson, who is one of the ablest speakers and one of the most effective pastors in Arizona. Grady Gamgane, general secretary of the Arizona Temperance federation, who has just returned from an extended tour of the northern part of the state, will speak on the topic, "Prohibition vs. Local Option."

Herbert E. Nixon of Tucson, known throughout the state as "The Caruso of the desert," will have charge of the music and sing several solos, and prohibition parodies. There will be another treat for the music lovers of Phoenix, as the great boy soprano, son of Professor William Conrad Mills, is on the program for a solo. Election of officers of the Sunday school association will be held at the close of the service.

This is an out-door rally, the place is cool, the time is convenient, and all the people will be there. Many extra seats have been provided so there will be no "standing room" left. The meeting will begin at 8 o'clock.

Geo. A. MacDonald

An Ideal Man for the Office of Sheriff

There is a POSSIBILITY of the election of one or more candidates on the republican county ticket. There is a strong Probability, however, that the full democratic county ticket will be elected and for this reason The Herald considers itself on tenuous ground when butting in for a say-so as to who, among the democratic candidates, should receive the nomination and in the general election the approval of the voters of the county. The sheriff's office is one of the most important of the county's portfolios to be filled in November. The man selected to serve the people should be a man of known and proven worth—morally, physically and socially. In George MacDonald, who has faithfully, and in every way acceptably, served the taxpayers as county treasurer, the democratic party has the ideal man for sheriff and one who will receive the hearty approval of the voters of Maricopa county regardless of political affiliation, past or present.

The Herald considers George MacDonald not only the strongest candidate presented by the democratic party, but one of the real big men of Arizona and a man whose every footstep in the pathway of life has left a lasting, favorable impression. Mr. MacDonald is an exceptional man from any angle you may wish to view him. He is, first of all, an unusually affable gentleman; secondly, a thoroughly competent business man, painstaking, accurate and absolutely honest in every detail of his undertakings. Busy though he may be, he is ever ready to push aside his duties to take up the burdens of others and by word and act assist in lightening them. There is always sunshine in his face and a warm spot in his heart for his fellowman. Democrat though he may be, MacDonald has never been an offensive partisan and numbers among his closest and best friends many of the leading republicans of the county and of the state.

Mr. MacDonald is extensively engaged in mining and is beloved, honored and respected by the men in his employ, as they recognize him as a man whose rule is to "live and let live," and who is constantly on the alert to remove obstacles along the pathway of others.

The democrats of Maricopa county will make no mistake. On September 12 George MacDonald will receive the nomination at their hands, and in November the voters will elect him to the office by an overwhelming majority; and his administration of the sheriff's office will go down in history as the best Maricopa county has ever had. Vote for George MacDonald and you are casting a ballot for clean politics, faithful service and one of God's noblemen.—The Arizona State Herald, a republican paper.
